

CARING FOR YOUR BLINDS.

For horizontal Blinds, make sure you vacuum the Blinds as often as possible making use of the brush attachment. Vacuum across the slats, not up and down.

For dusting, make sure that you don't use a plastic duster. If possible use a proper lamb's wool duster, again working across the slats, horizontally, and starting at the top.

In the case of Vertical Blinds make sure to brush in a downward motion, as the slats often become unhooked if you brush in an upward motion.

You can also use a rubber sponge, also known as a dry sponge, which can be found at hardware and paint stores. Wipe the dry sponge firmly across the Blinds to help to remove dust and residue from both fabric as well as Vinyl Blinds.

When spot cleaning a blind, never spray the all-purpose cleaner directly onto the blind. Spray the all-purpose cleaner onto a clean dry cloth first and then wipe the Blind.

When it comes to Wooden Blinds, try not to soak them. Make sure to clean them in place, instead of removing them as you would do for other types of Blinds, clean them whilst in place.

Fabric Blinds can be a little more complicated, and it would be best to take them to a dry cleaner.

Do not attempt to cleaning the Blinds by spraying them with a car-wash hose or dunking them in a bucket of water.

To clean Metal and Vinyl Blinds, you will need to take the Blinds outside and lay them on a small rug or piece of carpet. Brush the Blinds with some soapy water, and then turn them over and brush the other side. To prevent water spots from forming make sure to rinse the Blinds and allow the water run off. When done, hang the Blinds to dry.
